What is a Spay or Neuter?

A spay or neuter is an operation an animal doctor (veterinarian) does to prevent dogs and cats from having babies.

Males are neutered.

Females are spayed.

Does it hurt ?

The animals do not feel a thing during surgery, they sleep through the whole thing. When the dogs or cats wake, they may be a little sore, but within a week they should be all better.

Why Spay or Neuter?

Did you know that almost 8 million animals enter shelters every year and most are euthanized?

These animals want a home to call their own, but, sadly, there are not enough homes for them.

Did you know that for every dog and cat to have a home every American family would have to take in over 8 dogs and 20 cats?

That's a lot of animals, and with more being born everyday it keeps getting worse. By getting your dog or cat spayed or neutered you are helping one of those cats or dogs have a better chance at finding a forever home.

Will my dog or cat be the same after the operation?

Absolutely. The positive changes are that they are less likely to roam, less prone to certain cancers and infections, dogs are less likely to bite, and there are fewer homeless animals dying in shelters.
